

The National Center for Assisted Living (NCAL) said "Compassion, Community, Caring" is this year's theme for National Assisted Living Week[®]. The annual, national observance—officially sponsored by First Quality in 2021—provides a unique opportunity for residents, their loved ones, staff, volunteers, and local communities to celebrate the individuals who live and work in assisted living and learn more about this sector of long term care.

"This year's National Assisted Living Week is special because of everything we have faced over the past year," said NCAL Executive Director Scott Tittle. "Compassion, Community, Caring' reflects the hard work and dedication of all the essential caregivers in assisted living communities during the COVID-19 pandemic. It also represents the importance of family and remaining connected, even when we could not physically be together."
